FRENCH DAVIS CUP DEFENDERS

Borotra Not To Play In Singles.

SELECTION OF MERLIN CAUSES SURPRISE

Paris, To-day.

The omission of Marcel Bernard from the French team to defend the Davis Cup has caused a mild sensation in tennis circles, and already criticism of René Lacoste's selection is being made.

The teams are:

France	Britain
H. Cochet	H. W. Austin
A. Merlin	F. J. Perry
J. Brugnon	H. G. N. Lee
J. Brugnon	H. G. N. Lee

Lacoste has definitely stated that Borotra, the "Bounding Basque," will not be called upon to play in the singles, which will be played by Cochet and Merlin.

He has not yet decided upon his doubles pair, but it is thought most probable that Borotra and Brugnon, Wimbledon champions for the past two years, will again play for their country. The passing over of Marcel Bernard in favour of Merlin has caused surprise. Bernard is the more enterprising player of the two, while Merlin's play is modelled on that of Lacoste himself. Should Merlin not shape well in his opening match with Perry it is thought likely that Borotra may again play in the singles against Austin, especially if the match depends on this result.

Germany Win 4-1 In Davis Cup.

VON CRAMM'S EASY WIN.

Dublin, To-day.

J. McVeagh frustrated the German attempt to secure a clean sweep win against Ireland in the Second Round of the Qualifying competition for the 1934 Davis Cup contest when he beat Prenz in straight sets.

Germany won by 4 matches to 1, Von Cramm easily beating J. McGuire.

G. Lyttleton Rogers, the giant Irishman, was unfortunately unable to play his last singles game owing to indisposition.

Results as cabled by Reuter:

Von Cramm (Germany) beat J. McGuire 6-4, 6-2.

J. McVeagh (Ireland) beat H. Prenz 6-4, 6-3.

Earlier results:

Von Cramm and D. Nourney (Germany) beat J. McGuire and B. McVeagh 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

D. Nourney (Germany) beat J. McGuire 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

G. Von Cramm (Germany) beat Lyttleton Rogers 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

WEATHER DELAYS ITALIAN AIR ARMADA

Balbo Postpones Start Of New York To Rome Flight

New York, To-day.

In deference to the advice of weather experts, General Balbo has postponed the departure of the Italian air armada on their homeward flight.

The 24 flying boats engaged on the Rome-Chicago-Rome flight, planned to leave New York at 11 a.m. yesterday, flying via the Azores and Spain, although they were originally scheduled to leave to-morrow. Reuter.

MOLLISONS ABANDON HOPES OF BAGHDAD HOP

Unable To Use Wrecked Machine.

ARRIVE IN NEW YORK IN PRIVATE PLANE

New York, To-day.

Owing to the complete wrecking of their plane, at Bridgeport, Connecticut, on Sunday night, Mr. James Mollison and his wife, the former Miss Amy Johnson declare that they have now no hope of attempting to establish a non-stop flight record from New York to Baghdad.

The bitterly disappointed flyers arrived here last night from Bridgeport as passengers in a private plane, landing at Floyd Bennett Field at 11.05 (B.S.T.). The air port, which 24 hours earlier had been thronged with a crowd of 25,000 people who were waiting to acclaim the pair, was almost deserted. Reuter.

London, Yesterday.

The Mollisons were within half an hour of New York, where every preparation had been made for reception, when, being uncertain of his position, Mr. Mollison decided to land.

Confused by lights and utterly exhausted, the airmen slightly overshot the aerodrome and ran into marshy ground where the plane overturned and was wrecked.

Lord Londonderry, British Air Minister telegraphed a message of sympathy as follows:

"Much regret to hear of the unfortunate accident, to yourself and Mrs. Mollison and of the damage to your machine when you had already accomplished so much."

N. ATLANTIC AIR SERVICE

Feasible In Opinion Of Col. Lindbergh.

TRIAL FLIGHT TO GREENLAND

Copenhagen, To-day.

Colonel Charles Lindbergh is satisfied that it is possible to establish a regular aerial connection across the North Atlantic as soon as the right route is ascertained.

During an interview, Col. Lindbergh stated that he and his wife will stay a long time in Greenland to continue investigations.

The object of the Lindbergh's flight, which commenced on July 9, is to survey for the Pan-American Airways the best route for the proposed Atlantic plane route. They will search for possible landing grounds and may continue their flight later to Iceland and Denmark. Reuter.

GREAT STIMULANT TO WORLD TRADE

WALL ST. VIEWS PLAN AS CONSTRUCTIVE

DEVELOPMENT EXPECTED OF SILVER AS CURRENCY BACKING

LONDON, TO-DAY.

THAT THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE SILVER AGREEMENT WILL PROVE TO BE ONE OF THE GREATEST STIMULANTS TO WORLD TRADE YET DEVELOPED, IS THE OPINION OF THE AMERICAN DELEGATE, SENATOR KEY PITTMAN.

In an interview with Reuter, he said, that with half the world knowing no other coinage, a rise in the price of silver would consequently benefit them. The price of silver was exactly half of what it should be. Stabilisation of the price would help China to pay off her debt and assist in other ways.

Senator Pittman paid tribute to other countries' delegates for their assistance, especially to the Chinese Finance Minister, Mr. T. V. Soong and the Indian delegates, whose spirit of co-operation convinced him that they would not fail to reach an agreement. Reuter.

Optimism On Wall Street.

SILVER BROKERS PREDICT BENEFIT TO MARKET.

New York, To-day.

The silver agreement is regarded by Wall Street silver brokers as the most constructive development since Senator Key Pittman's recent silver legislation in Congress regarding war debts.

The interpretation of the agreement is that the market will have to absorb only the new production of the next four years which is regarded as a notable gain in view of the heavy stocks in India and elsewhere.

The absence of an agreement for a definite ratio of silver as part of the currency backing for signatory nations is regarded as unimportant in view of the salutary effect of the present agreement on market conditions, though it is believed that such a pact is likely to develop in the near future.

"A Palliative Only."

LUKEWARM RECEPTION BY U.S. SILVER MINERS.

Denver, Colorado, To-day.

The mining industry generally has accorded a lukewarm reception to the World Economic Conference silver agreement.

One prominent member declared that the plan might tend to relieve the pressure on the price of silver as a commodity but did not correspond to the Colorado idea for restoring the use of silver as money.

Ex-Senator Charles Thomas, declared that Senator Pittman's plan was only a palliative and would have more adverse effect on the silver situation in the long run.

Mr. George Harrison, Chairman of the Denver Chamber of Commerce Mining Committee, declared that the plan was all right as far as it went, but did nothing for the bimetallic policy it advocated. Reuter.

Spot and forward silver prices yesterday advanced 1/2, closing at 18 5/16 and 18 7/16 respectively.

CHANG VISITS FRENCH MILITARY CENTRES

Paris, To-day.

SILVER PRICES WILL RISE.

American Producer's Opinion.

San Francisco, To-day.

Mr. Henry M. Rives, Secretary of the American Silver Producers' Association, in an interview with Reuter, yesterday, stated that the new silver agreement would unquestionably raise the price of the metal.

A large proportion of emergency expenditure, in the form of sound loans on the foundation of Federal credit, which was broad and sure, was the base of the whole Recovery Plan.

Only about 5 per cent of the deposits in the National banks were still tied up in State banks, showing a steady reduction in the total of frozen deposits.

He stressed the vital necessity of restoring purchasing power by reducing debt interest and charges, and warned employers that penalties existed to protect the welfare of the laggard.

The Government would distribute badges of honour to all employers who agreed to abide by the voluntary Blanket Code in order to shame slackers, while a Roll of Honour would be kept at the Post Office in every town.

The Recovery Bill provided means to conquer unemployment, with the same weapon which had been used to strike down child-labour. Reuter.

SILVER RISES IN NEW YORK

All Stock Prices Advance.

RECENT SLUMP HALTED

New York, To-day.

Persistent silver buying was a feature of the day's business on Wall Street, yesterday.

Buying was strong both at the opening and closing of the market, by a leading trade house. Commission houses and foreign speculators were good buyers late in the session, when foreign selling appeared.

The general market showed a sharp advance, industrial averages rising 5.86 to 94.28, while rail averages advanced 3.05 to 47.37. Utilities and bonds improved 2.55 and 1.12 to 32.18 and 87.58 respectively.

Business was less brisk, only 3,420,000 shares being traded.

LOCAL DOLLAR RISES TO 1/5.

Substantial Advance In Silver Prices.

Reflecting the advance in silver prices following the World Economic Conference silver pact, the local dollar has jumped 1/2 to open on demand this morning at 1/5.

Spot and forward silver prices yesterday advanced 1/2, closing at 18 5/16 and 18 7/16 respectively.

The London and New York cross rate, quoted on Saturday at £G34.68, yesterday closed at £G34.64, while the New York and London rate closed yesterday at £G34.66½ against £G34.63½ on Saturday.

RECOVERY PLAN IN AMERICA

Steps To Combat Unemployed.

ROOSEVELT'S BROADCAST

Washington, To-day.

A nation-wide attack on unemployment was yesterday launched by President Roosevelt. In the course of a striking broadcast address, he said that the immediate task of bringing regular expenses within revenues had now been accomplished.

A large proportion of emergency expenditure, in the form of sound loans on the foundation of Federal credit, which was broad and sure, was the base of the whole Recovery Plan.

Only about 5 per cent of the deposits in the National banks were still tied up in State banks, showing a steady reduction in the total of frozen deposits.

BRITISH POSTAL SERVICE

Splendid Progress During Past Year.

P. O. EXPANDING FOR A TRADE REVIVAL

London, To-day.

During the Commons debate last night on the Post Office vote, which showed an anticipated surplus on all services of £10,792,000, the Postmaster-General, Sir Kingsley Wood, gave an interesting account of the Department.

The number of telephone subscribers increased during the past year by 15 per cent. In the Post Office Savings, the sum of over £300,000,000 was standing to the credit of 5,500,000 depositors, while Government securities to the value of £200,000,000 were held by Post Office depositors.

The gross turnover of the Post Office was £760,000,000.

Nearly 7,000,000 postage stamps were sold last year. Wireless licences now number 5,598,078. Air mails are being increasingly used.

Britain's Beauty Battalion.

Dancing On The Path To Health.

NOW 20,000, STRONG.

A woman of 78 is an active member of the "Beauty Battalion," or the Women's League of Health and Beauty, to give it its official name.

Twenty thousand have enrolled in the "Beauty Battalion."

When Mrs. Bagot Stack started it less than three years ago there were 16 members. The 16 grew to 5,000 by last year. Now they have leapt up to 20,000. By the end of this month they will probably be 25,000, and by the end of the summer 50,000.

Now there are "Beauty Battalion" branches in Belfast, Glasgow, Liverpool, Birmingham, Southend, Reading and Slough, Golders Green, Kensington, Holloway and other places—including New York.

A contingent of the New York girls came all the way to Albert Hall to take part in the League's annual demonstration of physical training and dancing over which Mr. Justice Atkinson has just presided.

"Beauty-in-a-Nutshell".

Miss Maire Bond, the first-lieutenant, as it were, to Mrs. Stack, revealed in an interview the "beauty-in-a-nutshell" definition:

A natural complexion, glowing cheeks, shining eyes and lustrous hair—through health.

She was asked: "But isn't it generally supposed that a girl can obtain all these things by buying a box of cosmetics and a bottle of hair oil?"

Miss Bond replied: "Once a girl comes into the League powder means very little to her."

The League's way to beauty includes Greek ballroom, tap and cabaret dancing, exercises, voice production and other pleasant things.

Miss Bond continued:

"We have a slogan that anyone from 'Six to Sixty' can join."

"One of our members is 78. She comes regularly every week to exercise. She declares that it does her a lot of good and that she goes away feeling absolutely youthful."

"At our classes all 'class' distinctions vanish. Our dances are entirely democratic."

"Nobody knows who the others are because 'Christian Names Only' is our rule. Leaders, teachers and members are known only as Phyllis or Helen or Betty as the case may be."

"We go down on the seaside beaches and we are about to start a mothers' and children's class."

"Music plays a big part in our scheme. All our movements are done to music, which is very important. To sum it all up: perfect health, which we are all striving for, is beauty."

PASTE FOR WALL-PAPER.

Mix flour and water into a thick paste, free of lumps. Add boiling water to form a consistency which could be spread smoothly with a brush, then add two tablespoonsful of brown sugar, six or eight drops of oil of cloves or lavender and a little corrosive sublimate.

CLEANING MEN'S TIES

When cleaning men's ties use branwater instead of petrol. Let 1 cup of bran stand in 1 quart of hot water for 1 hour, allow to cool, strain and wash ties, using a dipping motion and no soap. Press with a fairly hot iron, having first inserted a piece of cardboard cut to the shape of the tie. The card prevents glossiness showing.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

Two-Way Sleeve For Summer

Smart And Practical Mode Described.

ECONOMY IN DRESSES

It was an American woman in an American dress who exemplified what strikes one as the brightest idea seen for spring and summer.

She wore a frock of printed crepe-de-Chine, which might equally well have been in cotton, linen, or voile, and only the top part of the sleeves was attached to the dress. This was of the fashionable small frill or cape variety, while below it from wrist to upper arm almost, but not meeting the shoulder frill, a detachable sleeve was pulled on and kept in place by buttons at the wrist, and presumably by thin inserted elastics tightened up.

In the case of the silk material this provided a day dress which could be converted into an evening or theatre one by the removal of the lower sleeves.

In the case of a washing summer frock, all women know how often a short-sleeved appearance is not right, especially for town or the office. In fact, the possession of extra sleeves will often obviate the possession of two frocks.

The notion, therefore, is economical as well as smart and practical, and is worth bearing in mind when having a summer outfit made. A little extra stuff is needed and no extra room in packing is required.

The lower sleeves is best made with a small frill at the top, but can be of any shape that is fancied to go with the style of the frock. That is to say, it can be long or short cuffs and can be cut full or close or leg-of-mutton or bishop-wise.

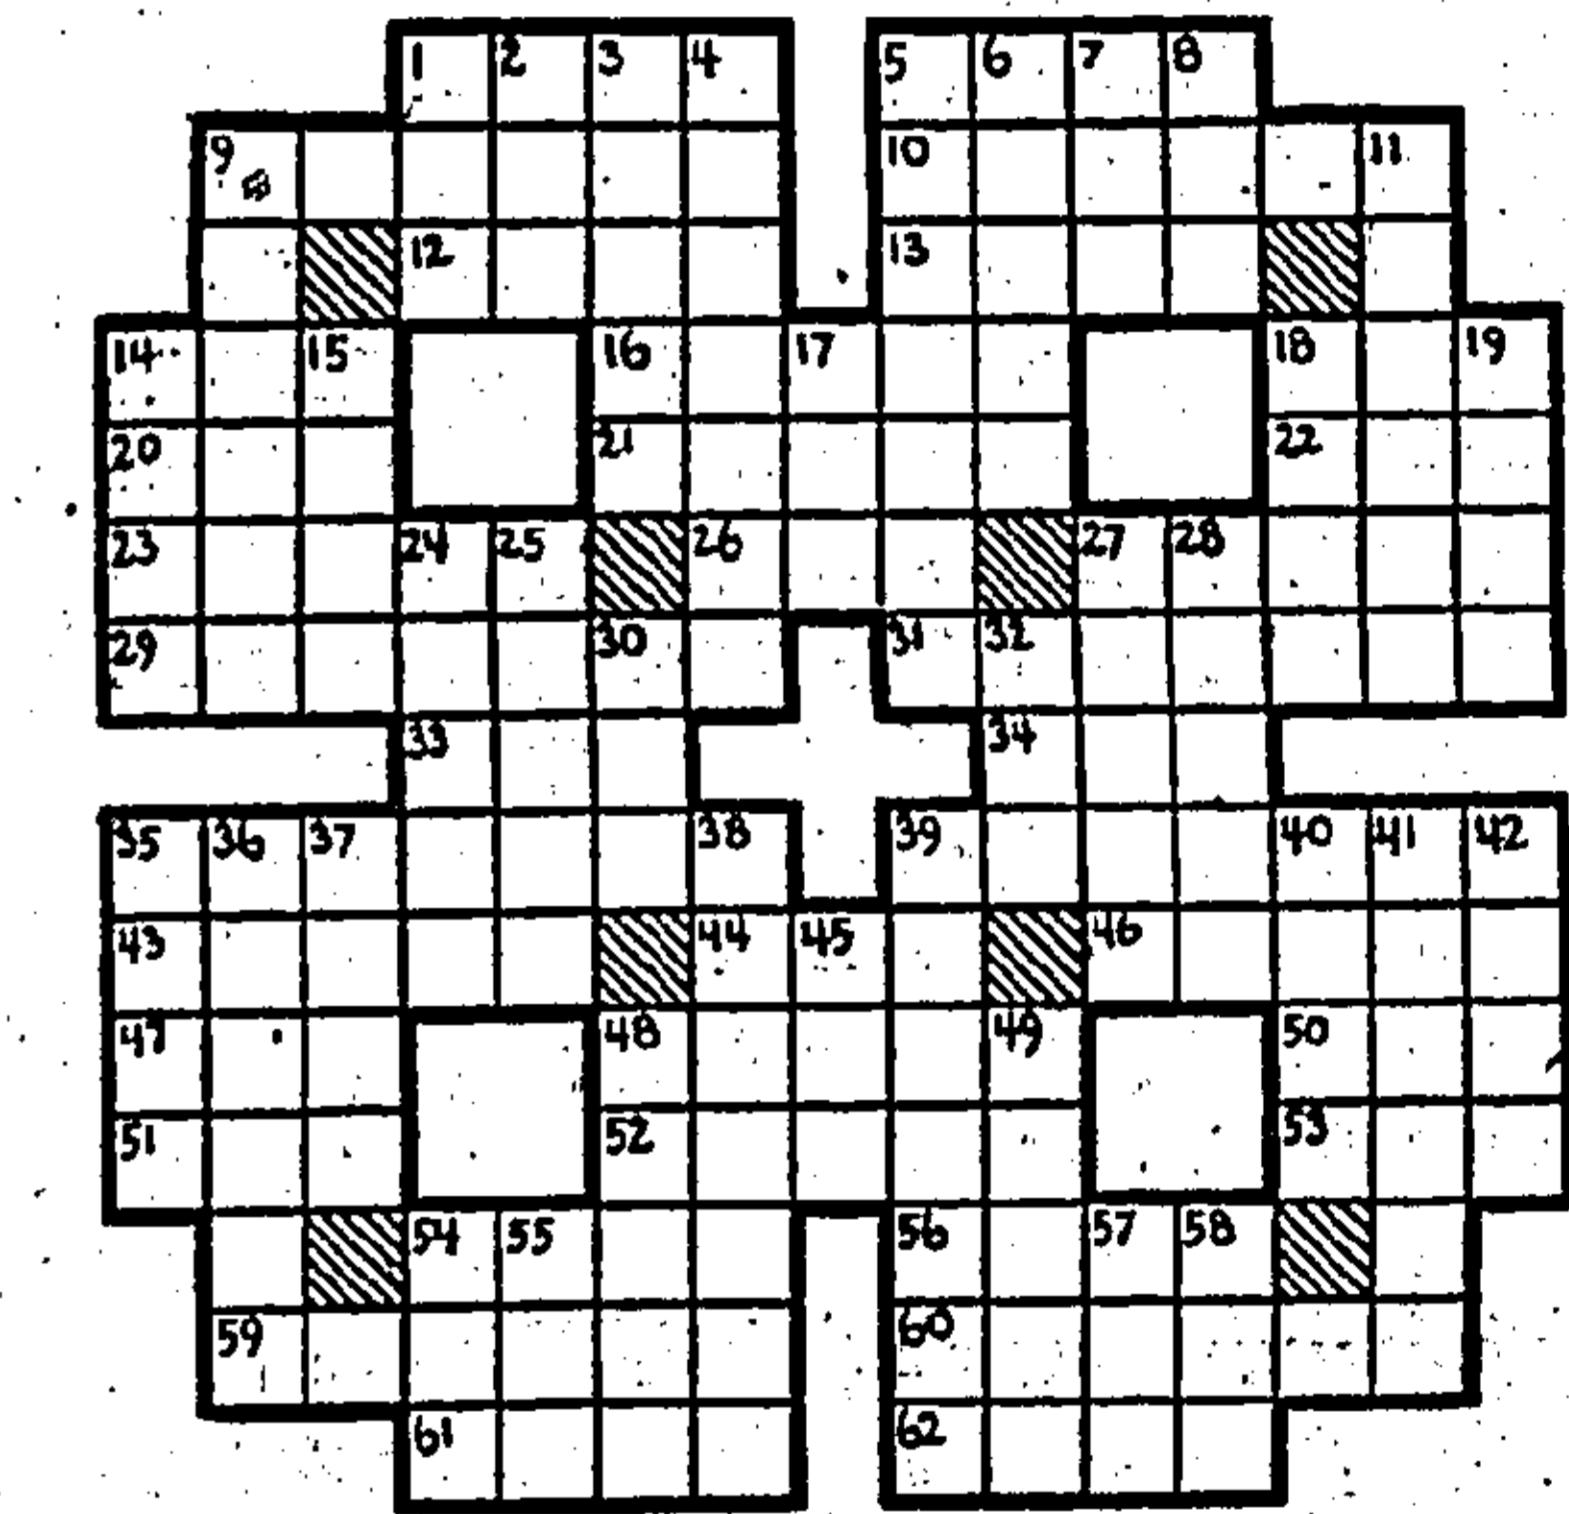

Yet another advantage is that these sleeves can be washed quickly and often while the dress itself needs only occasional attention from the laundry.

COAL DUMP AT KOWLOON

[To the Editor "China Mail"]

Sir,
Reference has already been made in the local press to the coal dump on the land between the Kowloon Canton Railway and the sea, facing Chatham Road. I understand that this privilege has been granted by the Kowloon Canton Railway to a Japanese firm of coal merchants, and doubtless for the profit of all parties concerned. Since the land in question "belongs" to the Kowloon Canton Railway, department of the Government of Hong Kong, it is presumed that they consider they may do as they please without the slightest consideration for owners and occupiers of neighbouring property. I venture to submit, Sir, that had that land been privately owned, and the owners had the audacity to commit such an outrage in inflicting such a nuisance and eyesore on their neighbours, they would have been appropriately stigmatised, anathematised and characterised therefor, and that the Government would have interfered and prevented its continuance; especially if neighbouring property were owned by the Government or tenanted by Government officials. Yet a Government Department apparently may commit such an act with impunity.

It is unnecessary to refer to the nuisance that has already been suffered by nearby residents in Chatham Road from coal dust whilst the dumping has been in progress, nor what may be expected when typhoons visit the Colony, or strong winds prevail from the N.E., E. or S.E. Apart from the nuisance caused to residents, the continuance of this coal dump outrage will have the effect of deteriorating the value of property in the vicinity, the demand for lower rents in consequence, and the every probable vacating of premises by existing tenants. The Government revenue from rates also will be affected.

This very small stretch of roadway along Chatham Road, with some seaview and occasional sea breezes, is the only stretch now left to Kowloon residents who for some long time have appreciated and used it as some sort of promenade. The coal dump now threatens this amenity.

It may be argued that the coal dump is a source of revenue to the Hong Kong Government and any inconvenience caused thereby to a small section of the community must be ignored. It will be well remembered what a howl of complaint and invective was hurled at the Peak Tramway when they put up a bold advertisement on their tramway, merely advertising its existence and service. That act of commercialism was considered a blight on the fair vista of the Peak, and in response to the clamour the Peak Tramway Co. removed that advertisement. Many similar examples could be adduced ad nauseam. The incident referred to however fades into insignificance compared to the coal dump at Kowloon.

Enclosing my card.

I am, Sir, Yours faithfully,
Coalescence.

Harbour Span Plans Near Completion.

Wellington (N.Z.)
Plans for financing in England the construction of a bridge across Auckland Harbour from the city to the opposite shore are nearing completion.

The directors of the Auckland Harbour Bridge Company which is carrying out the scheme, have adjusted certain details to meet the wishes of backers in London, who have offered £1,500,000 for the work.

The building of the bridge would provide employment for 400 men for three years.

British Machines' All-Round Excellence

SPEED SUPREMACY CHALLENGED

Every student of naval and military history is familiar with the oft-repeated situation occurring when the up-to-date equipment of one Power is within a short period surpassed by that of a rival. This situation has arisen over and over again as regards ships, guns, rifles, and armour. At a superficial glance history seems likely to repeat itself in the case of aircraft, but this could only be disturbing were a first-class war imminent, writes the Air Correspondent of the Observer.

If the position demanded it, the Air Ministry could to-day order new equipment of fighters of superior performance. Such a measure, however, would be foolish and wasteful even were there no need to study economy. And, it should be remarked, military efficiency is never secured by hasty extravagant expenditure.

The time to order new equipment is the precise moment when rival countries have committed themselves inexorably to the establishment of new types, and then to go one better.

Some five years ago Great Britain won a decisive lead in the performance of her Service aircraft

BUILDING INCREASE
IN AMERICA.29.4 Per Cent. Gain Over
March In 778 Cities.WASHINGTON STATISTICS ISSUED.

There was an increase of 21.2 per cent. in indicated expenditures for total building construction in April as compared with March, according to reports received by the Bureau of Labour Statistics of the United States Department of Labour from 778 identical cities having a population of 10,000 or over.

The 1933 increase of April over March was greater than the increase shown in comparing these two months in any of the previous three years. Comparing April, 1933, with March, 1933, there was an increase of 29.4 per cent. in the number and an increase of 10.3 per cent. in the estimated cost of new residential buildings. New nonresidential buildings increased 44.7 per cent. in number and 43.4 per cent. in indicated expenditures.

There was an increase of 17.7 per cent. in the number of additions, alterations, and repairs and an increase of 8.3 per cent. in indicated expenditures for this type of structure. The total number of building operations increased 23.1 per cent. while indicated expenditures for total building construction increased 21.2 per cent. during this period.

During April, 1933, 2,373 family-dwelling units were provided in new buildings. This is an increase of 2.3 per cent. as compared with March.

Comparing permits issued in 552 identical cities having a population of 25,000 or over in April, 1933, and April, 1932, there was a decrease of 41.2 per cent. in the number of new residential buildings and a decrease of 52.5 per cent. in indicated expenditures for new residential buildings. New nonresidential buildings decreased 32.2 per cent. in number while indicated expenditures for this type of building decreased 61.7 per cent.

There was a decrease in both the number and estimated cost of additions, alterations, and repairs. The number decreased 4.3 per cent. and indicated expenditures 24.0 per cent. The number of total building operations comparing these two periods decreased 14.1 per cent. while indicated expenditures decreased 51.3 per cent.

The number of family-dwelling units provided in these 352 cities decreased 40.6 per cent. comparing April 1933, with April, 1923.

what is known as an octane number not exceeding seventy-six. Foreign Service aircraft use fuel of much higher octane number, and, actually in France and the United States a squadron, or so, are experimentally using fuel of an octane number of 100.

Without going into highly-technical explanations, this means that the engines using fuel of a high octane number gives greater power, and that without any injurious effect on the engines (although, perhaps, one or two exceptions could be mentioned) other than a slightly shortened "life."

If the Air Ministry were to-day to sanction the use of fuel with an octane under of, say, only 86, the performance of our aircraft would be increased by about 10 per cent., and it would by this means become equal to that of new foreign aircraft of corresponding classes even of advanced types. This means that all the Interceptor Fighters of the R.A.F. could immediately have their speed increased to 240 miles per hour, which is faster than that of any other country's standard fighter. Why, then, fret about this question when many grave matters should arouse national disquiet as regards air defence?

British Methods Soundest.
No foreign Power has aircraft of such all-round excellence as the British standard Interceptor, two-seater Fighter, Day Bomber, and Army Co-operation types. Moreover, although absolute speed is the basic element in performance, rapid climb, strength for aerobatics, airworthiness, and the qualities which enable a squadron to "keep the air" and not rapidly to lose strength by deterioration and in landing casualties have to be reckoned.

Yet Great Britain cannot afford to be complacent: far from it. The lead which we won is definitely challenged, as it was bound to be, and we must be prepared for a more difficult task in the future. There is, however, certainly no reason for panic, but in view of the actual work that is proceeding behind the scenes by the Air Ministry and by British firms there is ground for confidence.

INVENTION.Engineer Perfects An Automatic S.O.S.

Moscow.

A device for the automatic radio transmission of S.O.S. distress signals has been invented by the Soviet engineer, A. Lanakov, and under laboratory tests has given eminently satisfactory results. The transmitter is under the constant control of the ship's steersman and works by the pressing of a button.

Simultaneously with the sending of the signals, the steersman, within three or four seconds, registered in a special instrument the location of the ship, and this also is automatically transmitted by radio on a wave-length of 600 metres.

Welsh Ports.

Newport Harbour Commissioners have instructed their finance committee to investigate the economic situation the Severn Barrage scheme would create if adopted.

Meanwhile strenuous opposition is to be offered because it is believed that the changes in the tidal currents would adversely affect the entrance to the River Usk and also the ports of Avonmouth and Cardiff.

In addition, it is considered that a big artificial port inland, which would be created by the barrage, would affect the trade of the existing ports. —Engineering.

Recovery In American Industry.

The sudden slump in the American stock markets appears to have been halted, and the first reaction will be a feeling of satisfaction that the markets have been purged of a considerable amount of the purely speculative influence. The effect of wild, uncontrolled speculation is far from beneficial, and the any further advances on Wall Street are likely to be based on the progress of business and industry rather than on speculation "waves." There or four indications are customarily accepted by the American business community as showing the trend of general trade. The course of the stock market, though it is watched with interest, is taken with reserve by those who remember that stocks in 1929 rose to the highest prices of all time, exactly a month before the October crash and the beginning of industrial reaction. But long experience has led to regarding steel production and loadings of railway freight, for example, as safer indications. The recent action of these and other similar industrial weather-signs has been exceedingly interesting. Last month's report of the Iron and Steel Institute shows the country's steel output in May to have been nearly 78 per cent. greater than in May of 1932 and larger by a million tons, or 120 per cent. In March of the present year, both comparisons are remarkable, because, until last April, no month since 1929 had failed to show a formidable decrease in production from the year before, and because steel production, even in normal years, is expected to decrease between March and May. In the active industrial period from 1925 to 1928, inclusive, the decrease during the two months after March ranged from 7 to 14 per cent. This recent experience appears to have caused surprise in the trade itself, especially since important sources of demand, notably the railway, building and construction industries, have shown little if any indication of expansion. Trade organs merely testify to urgent buying from "miscellaneous sources"; but that really tells the story. In the financial uncertainty and bewilderment of a few months ago, purchase of steel for the hundreds of minor uses to which it is applied in thousands of communities was virtually suspended.

Even household plumbing repairs, necessary renovation of buildings or machinery, were allowed to wait; the consequence being that, once fear of general insolvency was removed, the need for large-scale requisition on available supplies became urgent. The estimated weekly production and consumption of steel in the United States has risen, since the beginning of March, from 17 per cent. of capacity to 44 per cent. or higher; yet, a year or two ago, good authorities estimated 50 per cent. as the "irreducible minimum for a 'going country.'" Much the same condition has existed in the distribution of goods to consumers by the railways. Until May, no week since 1929 had failed to show a substantial decrease from the year before in cars loaded for transportation. In March "carloadings" footed up the smallest total of any month since the war, actually 30 per cent. less than the leanest month of 1921. That this utterly abnormal state of things should have begun to change when the "banking crisis" passed, and that 60,000 more cars should have been loaded in May of 1933 than in May of 1932, may reasonably be thought to be reaction from a condition where the theoretically "irreducible minimum" had been passed.

Nearly all other familiar industrial indices are providing similar testimony. America's industrial vitality reached low ebb in March. There soon came speed-up of activities to make good the resultant shortage. We do not yet know how long this evident "underproduction," this postponement of necessary use of material, has existed and how far the process of replenishment will be carried. That will be determined largely by the extent to which circumstances make possible restoration of business confidence. It will always be a matter of high dispute regarding this depression, how much of the trouble was occasioned by inevitable reaction from a false economic situation and how much by the temporary shattering of the community's morale.

HERE, THERE and EVERWHERE

Mr. Dickson's Achievement.

Mr. Jeff Dickson, the American sporting promoter, who spoke in London recently at a large luncheon party at the Savoy on his new scheme for a world stadium at Westminster, has distinct limitations as an orator.

But as an organiser and as a propaganda artist he compels admiration and respect. He has secured for his scheme seven feet nine inches of publicity in the London Press.

This is a remarkable achievement for a man who is not yet 40. Mr. Dickson's publicity "haul" is made up as follows: "Daily Express," 32 inches; "Times," 10 inches; "News Chronicle," nine inches; "Daily Mail," nine inches; "Daily Telegraph," eight inches; "Daily Herald," eight inches; "Daily Mirror," eight inches; "Morning Post," seven inches; and "Daily Sketch," two inches.

And now here are three inches more.

Berlin's New Greeting.

The French Revolution taught Frenchmen to wear long trousers. The Russian Revolution popularised the English cap, introduced by Lenin himself, among the Red comrades. The Nazi Revolution has given to the vast army of German civil servants a new greeting.

No longer does Herr Tintenfass, when he enters his office in the Wilhelmstrasse, greet his colleagues with a cheery "Wie geht's?" Now, as he dons his paper cuffs, he murmurs a sepulchral whisper: "Ist ihre grossmutter in ordnung?" which may be best rendered in English by "Is your grandmother O.K.?"

This grand-maternal solicitude is genuine. By the new racial law every German civil servant must show a pure Aryan descent for at least two generations. Otherwise he loses his job.

BEHOLD, LONDON UNIVERSITY

NEW LEASE OF LIFE FOR BLOOMSBURY LARGEST IN THE WORLD

(By John Ludgate.)

London. London University has begun to emerge from a long and singular effacement. Hitherto it has lived a sort of refugee existence, a homeless family camped out in many heterogeneous buildings in different parts of London. It has had a name, of ever-increasing reputation, but no recognisable identity.

With the laying by the King of the foundation-stone of the great buildings on the Bloomsbury site in which the principal work of the University will be centralised that reproach is removed.

Behold London University! On these 10½ acres in the heart of London, acquired through the generosity of the Rockefeller Foundation, the University will, for the first time, have its own Great Hall, where the picturesque ceremonial of University life can be fitly staged.

There will be a fine library, well-stocked with the books and treasures which are now difficult to make use of and impossible to display. Instead of the present cramped quarters in the Imperial Institute at South Kensington, the administrative offices will occupy a modern building in the centre of the block.

Like a hen calling her chickens, the new Bloomsbury centre will assemble its learned family from an amazing variety of homes. London will realise for the first time what is entitled to boast of anything deserving the name in the sense in which Oxford and Cambridge can claim it.

Few things will contribute more to the establishment of a real corporate undergraduate spirit, with a distinct "London" label and influence, than the amalgamation of all these petty Unions in one authoritative body.

In one way and another, then, this dam must be destined to rank among the important dates—in London history, certainly, and, one may dare also to say, in the history of the Empire.

Many Workers

It has not been reached without effort on the part of a group of men whose reward will be that their names will live in parallel honour with these years of the London University's blossoming.

The Earl of Athlone, most successful and popular of all Chancellors of the University, takes a lion's share of the credit of the work done, and Professor Louis Napoleon George Filon, the burly and genial Vice-Chancellor, whose first name recalls that his father was tutor to the Prince Imperial, has taken no small part in the achievement.

DECIDING FUTURE OF CONFERENCE

Bureau Meets
To-day.

SUB-COMMISSIONS ADOPT
RESOLUTIONS.

London, To-day.

The future of the League of Nations Monetary and Economic Conference will be fully considered by the Conference Bureau to-day. The Bureau will have before it the reports of its two main commission which, in turn, are based on the reports of their many sub-committees.

The Economic Commission has already completed its report, and yesterday afternoon the Monetary and Financial Commission examined the report of their Rapporteur, M. Bonnet of France in a plenary session.

It is stated that the initial exchanges revealed the solution of the majority of problems involved and the necessity for settling first, certain fundamental questions. It was agreed after an exchange of views, that the solutions were for the moment impossible, and that in the circumstances, it was better to postpone discussion.

The Sub-commissions accordingly decided to concentrate on the war-loan as likely to lead to immediate results, and modified their programme. The first sub-commission, dealing with immediate measures, adopted a resolution relating to indebtedness. Discussion of other subjects only proceeded far enough to outline the main problems.

The second subcommission, on permanent measures, has adopted the five resolutions already reported, dealing firstly, with the adoption of gold as an international monetary standard; secondly, the creation of central banks; thirdly, the need for co-operation between such banks; fourthly, their adoption in certain agricultural countries to their special economic conditions and fifthly, the resolution dealing with silver.

Referring to the communication received regarding the general principles of the monetary policy of central banks, the report notes that the United States delegation considered the discussion on this question as premature, but that the Federal Reserve Bank would calmly confer at opportune times with other central banks on questions of this character, in so far as they were compatible with national policies.

The sub-commission was unable to complete its report during the present session regarding the gold exchange standard and other methods of economising gold, and the report suggests that the Bank of International Settlements should deal with the problem of the gold exchange standard.—British Wireless Service.

HARBOURING A GIRL

Two Married Women
Gaoled.

Two Chinese married women, Wo Tai Mai and Lam Ng Mui, were convicted at the Central Police Court this morning with harbouring a Chinese girl, Au Sun, at Amoy Street, Wanchai.

It was stated that the girl was handed to Lam Ng Mui by the first defendant, who kept her in her house for four days. The defendants intended to sell the girl for the purpose of prostitution, it was stated.

The first woman was sentenced to six months' hard labour, and Lam Ng Mui was sentenced to one year's hard labour.

BANK COMPRODOR VICTIM OF THEFT.

Banishes Gaoled.

Charged with theft of a purse containing $150, the property of Mr. Kwok Chan, the compradore of the Banque de l'Indo-Chine, an unemployed Chinese, Chan Lee, was sentenced to six months' hard labour at the Central Police Court this morning. The defendant pleaded guilty.

The defendant was also charged with returning from banishment, and a further sentence of one's year's imprisonment was imposed.

CHINESE RAILWAY REVENUES

Diversions Protested
In Commons.

DEFAULT OF LOANS

London, To-day. The diversion of Railway revenues allocated for Service and Railway loans was yesterday brought to the attention of the House of Commons by Mr. A. C. Moreing, Conservative member for Preston.

The Under-Secretary for Foreign affairs, Captain Anthony Eden, stated that the Chinese Government had given assurance in the case of the Peking-Mukden Railway, that the allotment of railway funds to supplement military requirements would not be repeated.

No other cases were known but the British Minister to China, Sir Miles Lampson was continually making representations to the Chinese Government as the defaults occurred, and would lose no suitable opportunity of impressing the importance of the maintenance of China's obligations to her creditors.

Captain Eden gave assurance that action would be taken to deal with the claim of Mr. W. J. Black and other claims in connection with the Pukow Fuchen Railway whenever the opportunity arose.—Reuter.

Publication Of Indecent
Advertisements.

MAGISTRATE'S COMMENT

The summonses against Mr. Wan Man-chiu, publisher, and Mr. Ho Au-suen, editor, of the Chinese newspaper, Tsun Wan Yat Po, for publication of an indecent advertisement in their newspaper, were dismissed at the Central Police Court this morning.

Mr. W. P. Thompson, Assistant Director of Criminal Intelligence, asked for permission to withdraw the summonses as the defendants had given every assistance to the police in connection with the other summonses concerning the advertisement.

The Magistrate, Mr. Wynne Jones, dismissed the summonses and remarked that he hoped that every possible step would be taken by the defendants to avoid a repetition of such trick advertisements appearing in their newspaper. It was his duty to warn the other Chinese newspapers against such advertisements, said the Magistrate.

Mr. Y. C. Kwan, counsel for the defendants, remarked that the newspaper had recently commemorated its sixtieth anniversary, and the paper was very careful about such advertisements.

COW TEMPLE AT CHICAGO WORLD FAIR

Milk Produced From Robot Heifer.

GREAT INTEREST CREATED

Chicago, Illinois. The cow has a temple at the Century of Progress Exposition. It is the Dairy Industries Exhibition Hall and thousands of people who have appreciated the utilitarian virtues of the cow but saw nothing dramatic about her, gather there daily.

The building looks something like a gargantuan bit of French pastry coloured in vivid blue and black and white.

The main turret of the building, or ground layer of the "pastry" is white, suggesting a pail of milk. Above that is a block of black.

In this temple the cow is queen. That is apparent by the friezes in brilliant reds and blacks near the entrance, showing the story of the cow's increasing importance in the affairs of mankind.

Inside the building is the throne and the deity occupies it. A life size model of a Holstein robot stands on a patch of greensward and illustrates why she is nature's greatest food factory.

One side of the cow is cut away to expose the internal organs. Before the eyes of the visitors milk is made.

The cow moves her head, turns a glassy eye on the audience, chews her cud and the food factory goes into operation.

First the roughage is masticated, then set down to the "mixing" room. Here, a tiny robot churns. Thence to the "breaking" unit, where another automaton pounds the roughage, illustrating how gastric juices act on foods.

Then the nearly finished product goes to the "selecting and sifting" room, from there to an "assembling" division. The whole process is analogous to the assembly track in an automobile plant.

The cow becomes an actress in another part of the dairy building. On a semi-circular screen flits a phantasmagoria, a series of scenes that are episodes in the story of man and cow.

First, a shadowy picture of primitive man and his half-wild, formidable horned bovine, down to the present-day barn with its herd of carefully bred cattle.

Music is synchronized with the pictures to the swell of the pipe organ the cow is glorified.—Reuter.

SEAMAN STABBED ON "FOO SHING."

Gambling Debt Leads To Knife Attack.

A stabbing affray, resulting in a Chinese seaman being admitted to the Government Civil Hospital with two wounds in the stomach and a wound in the left arm, took place on the Indo-China S. N. Company's steamer, "Foo Shing," last night. The wounded man's assailant escaped.

The fight was over a gambling debt, and after a heated argument, Fat Cheung, also a seaman, is alleged to have drawn a knife and to have attacked a man named Kwock Cheung king.

Following the attack, Fat Cheung jumped from the ship to the wharf and escaped down Connaught Road.

To-Day's Short Story.

MYSTERY OF A DIAMOND BRACELET

THE PROGRAMME GIRL'S STORY

As Told To PETER CHEYNEY.

I'VE never been certain in my mind as to whether I was on the wrong side of the law or not—what do they call it "an accomplice before and after the act"—something like that. Well, that's what I was anyway, and I don't know that I'm particularly sorry.

One night a couple came into the stalls and they took my eye at once. She was a lovely woman, and she was wearing a dress that must have cost a small fortune. She looked as miserable as death, and she had got on a diamond bracelet that would have kept me in comfort for the rest of my life—you know, one of those wide bracelets with lots of stones in them; you could see it was real by the sparkle.

The man was fat and coarse-looking. I didn't like the look of him, but I could hardly take my eyes off the woman, she was so sweet.

During the first interval I went into the foyer. Standing by the door, smoking a cigarette, was a tall, slim and good-looking young fellow that I'd sold a programme to earlier in the evening. Presently the fat man and the beauty came into the foyer, and I thought for a second that a quick glance of recognition passed between the woman and the slim young man.

Presently the bell went and everybody went back to their seats—all except the young man, and he came up behind me and touched me on the elbow.

"Would you like to earn a fiver, my dear?" he asked. He smiled at me and I had to smile back, there was something so very attractive in his eyes.

I nodded. "I certainly would, sir," I said.

He took a little brown paper package out of his pocket. It was carefully tied up with gold wire. He gave it to me, and at the same time slipped a five pound note into my hand.

"You've noticed that very good-looking lady who is with the fat man in the stalls?" he said. "Well, I want you to slip up to her very carefully during the next act and give her this package. Whatever happens the man mustn't see. See you won't be surprised when you hand it to her. You'd better walk along the row behind and just drop it into her lap."

"When you've done that you go back to your job in the ladies' cloak room. Just wait about 'there.'

Then she went back to her seat and I walked into the foyer and gave the package to the young man. He was always smiling and he looked so kind it did you good to look at him.

He took the package and put it into his breast pocket.

"Now listen, my dear," he said. "I've got no reason to suppose that this will happen, but it's just possible that someone may come along to-morrow or the next day and ask you whether the lady who gave you this packet has spoken to anyone in the theatre to-day. If they do you just say no, see? Now there's a matinee on here to-morrow and you'll be on duty, and so you'll know if anybody's asking questions. I'll wander along to-morrow evening, just about at the time of the first interval and you can tell me if anything's happened, see? Maybe there'll be something more in it for you. So long, my dear!"

And off he went. He seemed to take it for granted that everyone would do just what he wanted.

Worth £10,000.

I began to feel a bit nervous about it all; but I was even more nervous when, next day, the manager sent for us all and told us that a diamond bracelet, worth ten thousand pounds, had been lost the night before by a lady who was at the theatre. As I was on duty in the stalls I was asked a lot of questions, but I said that I hadn't noticed any lady wearing a bracelet.

At five-thirty, after the matinee, I was sent for to the manager's office. There was a big man standing there, and he grinned at me.

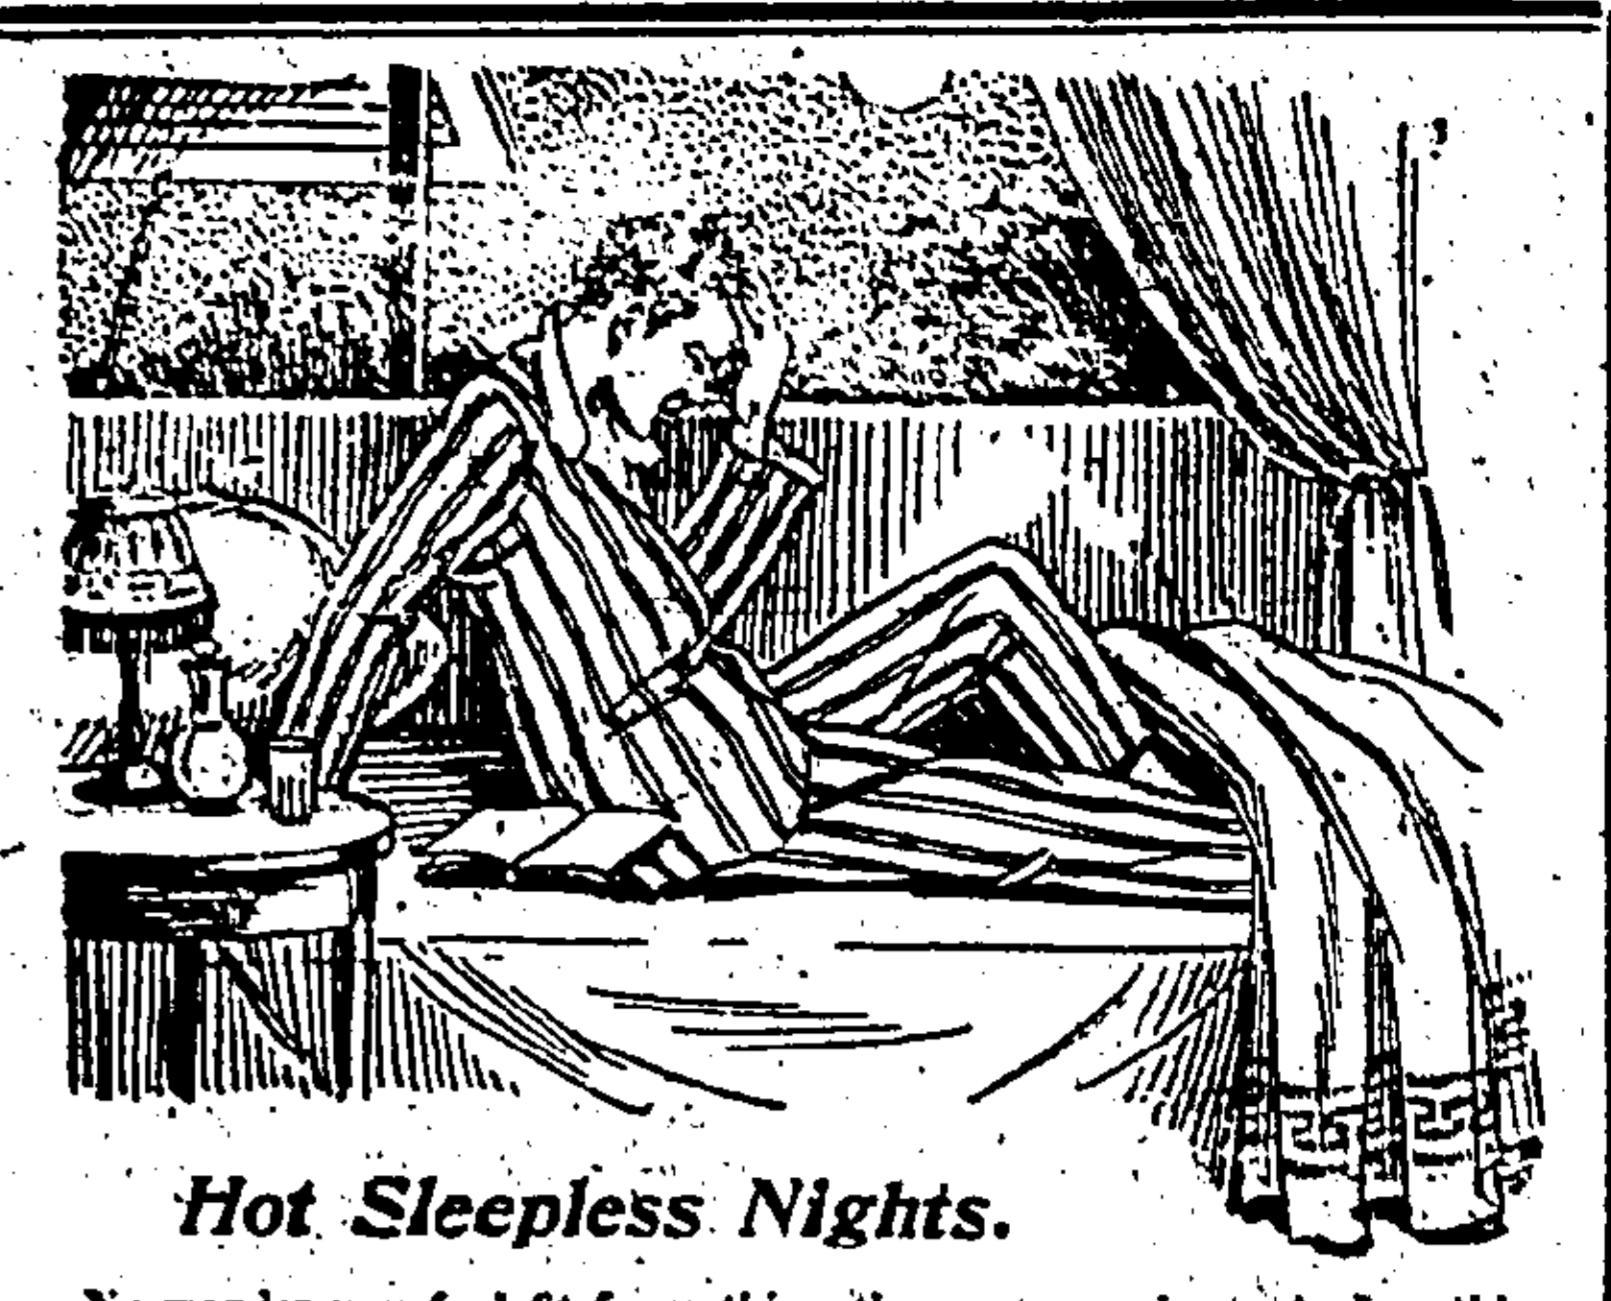

"Now, my dear," he said. "The husband of the lady who lost that bracelet last night says that she was wearing it when she arrived and that she left him for a few minutes.

Do you know where she went to? I'm a private detective employed by him, and it will be worth your while to talk to me."

I said I didn't know anything, but he told me very crisply that somebody in the theatre had seen me drop the package in the lady's lap, and that I'd better tell what I knew. I told him that he'd better come back later in the evening, after the first interval, and that I might have something to say to him. He blazed a bit, but finally agreed.

"I'd made up my mind I wouldn't talk until I'd seen the young, slim man again."

SPALDING for Speed

The all-important factor in modern lawn tennis is speed and yet more speed. Other things being equal the man with that extra speed wins the match.

The new Spalding laminated multi-ply rackets are the fastest and most powerful ever produced. They can be strung to the highest possible tension without risk of warping thus giving tremendous pace to the ball as it leaves the racket.

The Spalding range of rackets for 1933 comprises seventeen attractive models at prices to suit all purses.

1933 BASEBALL SEASON UNDER REVIEW

SOUTH CHINA WIN TROPHY OUTRIGHT

GOOD TEAM-WORK SPELLS SUCCESS

TEAM FOR NANKING ON OCTOBER 10

(By Ike.)

Sunday's game at Caroline Hill climaxed the local baseball season insofar as official League games are concerned, and South China's third successive win has given them the custody of the League trophy for "keeps."

This trophy has been held twice by the Japanese and the same number of times by the Filipinos, when they were contenders in the local League.

This season's activities would have been much more interesting had Lingnam University not withdrawn after playing only one game with South China, which by the way ended in a tie.

As a result the League was composed of only three teams, South China, the Hong Kong Club, and the American Navy team picked from the U.S.S. Fulton.

South China.

South China, under the competent leadership of Matty Chang, deserved to win the trophy for their splendid team-work if for nothing else. Matty has been able to get practically the same line-up for every game, and has kept his team so enthusiastic that they took almost as much interest in their practice games as in their important games. Their fine co-operation and the good spirit that prevailed among the team members has helped them throughout the season.

Matty Chang received his early baseball knowledge and experience in Honolulu long before coming to the Colony.

He has participated four years in the local League, and has always been one of the most enthusiastic players.

Matty has been catching for his team and has shown himself to be very competent in this department. He knows the rules far better than most of the players, and this has helped him in training his team and in getting decisions for them.

Team For North

Matty told me after the game on Sunday that from his own observation his team were not so bad in fielding, but that they could stand considerable improvement in their batting.

Matty also said that the South China team is going to Nanking on October 10, where they will not only play North China, but will clash with a picked team from Japan.

T. Kim, South China's star short-stop made his debut in the League this year. He received his training during four years in a California High School, where he played second-base.

I don't believe there was any other short-stop this year who was quite as fast on his feet or who could peg the ball to first base with such accuracy and speed as Kim.

South China certainly discovered a worthy substitute for H. Jan, when they found Tommy Kim.

Another outstanding player for the champion has been their first-baseman, T. Chan, who never failed to catch the ball and get his man out if the ball was pegged to him with any accuracy at all.

Several other outstanding men on the team have been Ed. Chang, E. Cheng, and C. K. Leung, who have played in practically every game.

Hong Kong Club.

Everyone seemed confident at the commencement of the season that the Hong Kong Club would be the champions this year—they had excellent material, and a tried baseball man as captain.

Their captain, Al Huebner, made an ideal coach and leader as he had the experience and the knowledge, and could really play baseball himself.

He started playing baseball at an early age and came here last year direct from Manila, where he had played for five years, first with Fort Mills and later with the Cavite Americans.

His team was a jovial one who never failed to give the spectators good entertainment.

Ross, third-baseman, is an old-timer. He knows the game and plays it in a clear style.

Speaking of "clean style," the Navy boys always played a clean game, and never showed any poor sportsmanship.

"Red" Storie was one of their heaviest hitters and played a good game at short-stop.

"Red" was not their only heavy hitter, as they were all fairly good at that, but he, Heald, Hale, and Donovan were outstanding.

Heald was always knocking out two and three-baggers.

Shullenberger and Patterson were two of the best pitchers in the League; and when they went on the mound they stayed there for the entire game.

Although the crowds who went to see the games this year were small, few claim that this year's play has been superior to what they have witnessed here before, especially the individual play.

Next year it is hoped that there will be more competition. A return to the game by the Japanese would be very pleasing.

Numerous exhibition games have been played at Caroline Hill and several of them were better than the League games.

There will probably be several more of these games played during the next month, one of which will be between a picked team, composed mostly of H.K. Club men, and

South China.

At this game the trophy will be officially presented to South China, who will retain it for "keeps."

(By A. Wallis Myers.)

London, June 29.

THE Commonwealth of Great Britain is doing well at Wimbledon.

On Tuesday it was South Africa; yesterday it was Australia.

Both have created first-class sensations by defeating seeded players.

Australia's great triumph came in the Doubles Championship.

Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, both from Adelaide — a fine pair of colts, blending with perfect sympathy and taking every chance with the coolest head — beat the American champions, Vines and Gledhill, the conquerors of Allison and Van Ryn in the final at Boston last year.

Expectation scarcely sat in the air when these couples began their battle on the centre court. Both were new to the packed galleries; the ice had to be broken between the players and the crowd.

Besides this was the first round of a new event. Stars are supposed to be immune from eclipse when the curtain goes up, so to speak; few dreamt that the great Vines and his Californian partner would be in danger.

NOT SO SURPRISING

Yet the result did not actually belie the book to any sensations! degree. Yesterday's heroes were twice within a point Australian doubles championship at Melbourne this year. They, at least, must have visualised the possibility of victory.

And all observers who had seen these young Australians in action at Bournemouth and in Paris, although with different partners, felt that odds offered against them would be worth taking.

South Australia beat West America in five sets, of which only three were close and the last a brief bout in which, with mounting confidence and supreme skill, the youngsters delivered the coup de grace on adversaries already wounded.

To say that they executed the Americans in the prime of life, speaking metaphorically, would not be true. Vines is a variable player; yesterday his greatness was often veiled from view.

He appeared to lack even the will to win; his errors of timing were legion; his errors of judgment amazingly frequent; his service, especially in the last set, a rod of breaking steel.

And Keith Gledhill, playing his first match on the centre court, hearing its human and microphonic sounds for the first time — perhaps a little dazed when the tide of fortune turned emphatically against his side — declined in sympathy.

VINES MISTRUSTFUL

The match took a fairly normal course for two sets. Service breaks were sought and found; one in each governed the issue. There was no hint of the ultimate verdict; two first-class teams were in conflict. But already Vines had shown a tendency to mistrust his backhand drive — to run round the ball and use his forehand, when Quist had revealed his complete mastery of the low volley to the strung watching it for the first time, and Turnbull, like his partner, had shown a cruel disposition towards any killable lob.

But the young Australians had a nimbleness and a neatness of return superior to the enemy, they only won the fourth set — the second of their three — with a narrow margin; the match was still in the balance. How swiftly it rose in favour of Australia in the final bout! Gledhill's service was broken through to 15, Vines's to love.

Here was irreparable damage. And the ground shots of the Americans went to pieces before the perfect attack of the Australians. How Quist and Turnbull must have thought of that Melbourne match as they swing for their final

C.R.C. "B" Lose Their 100 Per Cent.

VARSIETY SECURE FIRST POINTS

The Chinese Recreation Club, the holders, advanced another rung in the ladder to the "A" Division Tennis League Championship yesterday when they easily overcame the Club at Causeway Bay. South China, their most dangerous rivals, secured two points at the expense of the Recreio.

The Chinese second string lost their 100 per cent. record when opposed to the Indians and the University secured their first points of the season by a win over South China's junior team. In the only other game the K. C. C. accounted for Craigengower.

T. K. Leung took Ho Ka Lau's place as Tsui Wai Pui's partner in the C. R. C. team and so well did he play that Tsui recorded another three wins. Denis Hazel made a welcome return to the Club team, but he was clearly lacking in practice after his illness.

J. W. Leonard and Y. Hachiuma did well to take two sets off the K. C. C. players. In their last match—against C. I. Stapleton and F. Gross—they were led 3-0, but rallied well to win at 7-5. The K. C. C. pair should have forced a draw at least, Gross missing two easy smashes in the final game.

Tsui Yan Pui was seen at his best yesterday at the K. C. C. He is showing rapid improvement.

5,000 MILES ON FRUIT DIET

Naval Man Cured Of Gas Ailment.

CYCLED FROM SYDNEY TO CAIRNS.

Sydney, N.S.W. Having pedalled 5,000 miles on a bicycle, with a 40 lb. pack, from Sydney to Cairns and back and over a wide area, eating nothing but fruit all the way. Jack Burrows, has just returned to his home at Manly, N.S.W.

For the past two years Burrows has been a "fruitarian." Invalided out of the Navy some years ago, suffering from the effects of gas, he went on a vegetarian diet, to be completely cured of his ailment. He gave up all meat and all cooked foods.

Later, Burrows experimented with a diet, solely of fruit, finding it more sustaining. He does not mix fruits, eating only one kind at each meal. Like the birds, Burrows eats only when he feels hungry. For years he has been absolutely free from sickness, and has not even caught a cold, though sleeping out in all weather during his tour.

Burrows' favourite meal is half a dozen bananas. For days he lived on mangoes in Northern Queensland. An extract from his diary reveals only-day's dietary at Kennedy:

10 a.m. Eight mangoes, 3 p.m. 12 mangoes, 7 p.m. 1 pineapple.

Coconuts are allowed in his list of fruits, and he lived for three weeks at Townsville on three a day. He is a non-smoker and teetotaller. Water, he seldom drinks, fruit supplying sufficient liquid nourishment for him.—Reuter.

FINE TRIP IN OUTBOARD MOTOR-BOAT.

Macao To Hong Kong Cruise.

THREE HOURS TO CASTLE PEAK

A trip in an outboard motor-boat from Macao to Castle Peak Beach was successfully made last Saturday by three Hong Kong sportsmen. This is probably the first time that the distance has been covered by a boat of this type.

Negotiations for the sale of an outboard motor engine in Macao were not successful, and instead of bringing it back by the Macao steamer, Mr. F. Ribeiro and two friends of the Outdoor Sports Equipment Company, decided to run the engine back under its own power.

They left Hong Kong on Friday night and arriving in Macao they attached the twin cylinder 4-cycle Crossgear outboard motor engine to a 15 feet open outboard boat which had been built in Macao.

Leaving at 9 a.m. on Saturday morning they carefully made their way out of the harbour and steered for Lantao Island, which was just visible in the distance. Passing the Ninepin Islands a little heavy weather was experienced but this was soon passed and the little boat skimmed over the water without incident arriving at Castle Peak Beach at noon.

Four gallons of gasoline were used for the trip, and also 6 bottles of aerated water and a dozen oranges.

"It was very hot," said Mr. Ribeiro.

U. S. WARNING TO GOLD HOARDERS

Administration Starts New Campaign.

1,000 SUSPECTS REPORTED

Washington, D.C. The United States Attorney General has transmitted to the Bureau of Investigation more than 1,000 names of suspected "gold hoarders with a view to compelling compliance with President Roosevelt's order that all gold or gold certificates above $100 be returned to the treasury.

At the same time the Attorney General denounced those who are still holding their gold as "recalcitrant citizens who are not doing their full duty to their country."

The names which are now being investigated were the first sent to the Department of Justice of the Treasury Department, which had compiled them from reports of banks over the country.

The Attorney General said the agents of the Bureau of Investigation would inquire immediately of those on the list whether they still had the gold or gold certificates in their possession.

If so, the holder will be advised specifically to turn in his gold immediately and the criminal section of the President's order providing a fine of $10,000 or 10 years in prison, or both, called to his attention.—Reuter.

The other nodded.

"Maybe," he said. "Well, are you going to talk business or not?"

The detective grinned.

"You win, I suppose," he said. "You'd better come back with me and see the husband. How much did you say you wanted? Fifteen hundred? It's a lot of money!"

The young man lit a cigarette.

"The course of true love never did run smooth," he said. And they walked out of the theatre.

I don't know what happened, but two days later I got a registered letter with a ten pound note in it, so it looks as if their little plot had come off.

But I still feel sorry for the woman.

Mystery Of A Diamond Bracelet

He said he would do this and I went off.

During the first interval in the evening performance the young man, very well dressed and still smiling, arrived. I told him just what had happened and that the private detective was coming soon.

"Don't worry, my dear," he said. "I'll talk to him."

A few minutes afterwards the detective came in. He looked surprised when he saw the young man.

"Well—if it isn't Micky!" he said. "An I haven't seen you since I was a policeman."

The young man grinned.

"Let's get down to hard facts, Grant," he said. "We both know what we want. I'll do all the explaining for you!"

"Last evening Mrs. Faradox came here with her new husband, whom she doesn't like very much, wearing a valuable bracelet. Somehow, by the time she had got home after having supper at a club with her husband, the bracelet had disappeared and in its place was very good paste imitation. Unfortunately for someone the deception was twigged by the husband when he was putting it into the safe last night."

"Now the bracelet isn't insured, and he wants it back—badly. It's worth a lot of money. Now between you and me and the gatepost, Mrs. Faradox wants something. She wants a thousand pounds to give to a young man whom she wanted to marry but couldn't, and who is dying of consumption. There is also somebody else who wants a bit 'for services rendered'—you can have two guesses as to who that person is."

"As you know, Grant, I know the world very well, and I dare say I could get the real bracelet well—say fifteen hundred pounds back for you. But it would cost, Well, what about it?"

The detective mopped his brow.

"So that's it, is it?" he said. "I suppose the truth of the matter is that you swapped the real bracelet for the paste one with her whilst she was at the theatre. I suppose you were going to get rid of it for her, so she could fix her late young man?"

The other nodded.

"Maybe," he said. "Well, are you going to talk business or not?"

The detective grinned.

"You win, I suppose," he said. "You'd better come back with me and see the husband. How much did you say you wanted? Fifteen hundred? It's

CINEMA NOTES

MAIL REVIEW

"JUST MY LUCK"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

Starring Ralph Lynn and Winifred Shottter, "Just My Luck," now showing at the Central Theatre, is a screen adaptation of the Aldwych farce, "Fifty-Fifty." The story affords Ralph Lynn characteristic screen material, and the outdoor locations, particularly the race-course scenes, extend the interest far beyond the possibilities of the stage.

Ralph Lynn is seen as a timid music teacher. A chance meeting with a prosperous business man changes his outlook in life, and adoring himself as a well-dressed business man, he rushes onward to trouble and success. His interpretation of the character is excellent and Winifred Shottter shows great advance as a screen actress.

MAIL REVIEW

"WHAT, NO BEER"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"What, No Beer," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, provides unusual comedy and entertainment.

In this picture Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, try to run a brewery. They become involved with the local beer-running factions and end up with the police raiding their plant. The situation is further complicated when Buster falls in love with the sweetheart of one of the beer barons, believing her to be a sweet young society girl.
